

INTRODUCTION

Aimmee is the author of “Tears of Hope” an incredible story of overcoming tragedies and enormous challenges. On her journey, Aimmee learned to see light out of the darkness. Her inspiring story is currently in development to be a motion picture entitled, “Light from the Shadows,” written and co-produced by the award-winning screenwriter, Eric P. Granger.

At the early age of seven, Aimmee began living the dark secret of enduring sexual, physical, and mental abuse by a member of her family. In this book, refusing to give in to the hardships of her life, she recounts her amazing journey of surviving 13 devastating years of the 1975 Lebanese Civil War.

Due to the war and her severe dyslexia, Aimmee was forced to leave school in the fourth grade with no hope or opportunities. As a child bride and young mother, she struggled through abusive relationships, oppressive poverty, and escaped death three times to fulfill her inner destiny.

In 1988, Aimmee seized an opportunity to come to the United States. Despite having no education or understanding of the English language, she challenges herself and alters her life from surviving to thriving. Today, her resourcefulness and determination have transformed her into a renowned inspirational Keynote Speaker, TV host, and life coach, accentuating the best humanity can become.

Aimmee’s mission is to elevate humanity’s consciousness by providing educational and inspirational programs through her Empowering Humanity TV show, online classes, where she invites some of the top experts in their field to share and teach their wisdom, knowledge, and powerful insights. Including healing through music and community networking events. Giving people hope and guidance to see the light through darkness and make a difference in the world!

75% of Aimmee’s net profits from her book “Tears of Hope” and the film will be donated to children who are affected by war, sexual abuse, and dyslexia.

SHORT BIOGRAPHY

Aimmee was born and raised in Lebanon, where she lived 13 years through the 1975 Lebanese Civil War. In the blink of an eye, and at the age of 12, her family lost everything and became homeless.

Due to her severe dyslexia and the war, she was forced to leave school in the 4th grade. She was persuaded to marry at the age of 14, and she became a mother at 15. While still a teenager, she became a single mom and was left with no education, skills, or money.

In 1988 Aimmee came to the United States. She had less than $200 and a 10-year-old daughter to raise. Aimmee couldn't read, write, or speak English. Everyone was telling her, "You need to go back to your country; you can't make it in the United States."

However, Aimmee was determined to do something great with her life.

Despite having only a 4th-grade education, English as her third language, and having no hope or opportunities, Aimmee challenged herself and transformed her life from surviving to thriving by discovering and mastering her Negotiator Mind™, a powerful program we all have within us.

Today, Aimmee is sharing the wisdom and the lessons she learned throughout her harsh journey to help and guide people around the world. She empowers LEADERS and people just like you, to see the light in the midst of darkness and transform their life from SURVIVING to THRIVING so that they can recognize their unique gifts, live their true purpose and make an impact in the world!
